SCOPE OF MASTER IN PUBLIC HEALTH (MPH)

The aim of JSS Academy of Higher Education & Research in starting Master of Public Health is to create Public health professionals for delivering better in health care. There is increasing demand for Master in Public Health (MPH) graduates in National and International Non Governmental Organizations (NGO's), Public and Private sector organizations and in the field of research.

ABOUT PUBLIC HEALTH:

- During the 20th century, the dramatic increase in average life span is widely credited to public health achievements, such as vaccination programs and control of infectious diseases, better safety policy such as motor-vehicle and worker safety, improved family planning, fluoridation of drinking water, and programs designed to decrease chronic disease such as heart disease and stroke.*
- Meanwhile, the developing world remained plagued by largely preventable infectious diseases, exacerbated by malnutrition and poverty. Diseases such as SARS, HIV-AIDS, increase of childhood obesity and the concomitant increase in type II diabetes, the impact of adolescent pregnancy, health disasters related to the 2005 Tsunami and Hurricane Katrina in 2006 are having major impact on the health of the people.*
- One of the most important public health issues facing the world currently is HIV/AIDS. Tuberculosis is also re emerging as a major concern due to the rise of HIV/AIDS – related infections and the development of strains resistant to standard antibiotics. Another major public health concern is type II diabetes.*
- Since 1980s, the growing field of population health has broadened the focus of public health from individual behaviors and risk factors to population – level issues such as inequality, poverty, and education.*
- Public health functions include: Health surveillance, monitoring and analysis, investigation of disease outbreaks & epidemics and risk to health establishing, designing and managing health promotion and disease prevention programmes,* enabling and empowering communities to promote health and reduce inequalities, creating and sustaining cross-Government and intersectoral partnerships to improve health workforce, ensuring the effective performance of public health services to meet goals in improving health, preventing disease and reducing inequalities, Research, development, evaluation and innovation quality assuring the public health function.

- Today most governments recognize the importance of public health programme in reducing the incidence of disease, disability, and the effects of aging, although public health generally receives significantly less government funding compared with medicine. In recent years, public health programs providing vaccinations have made incredible strides in promoting health, including the eradication of smallpox, a disease that plagued humanity for thousands of years.

WHY PURSUE A CAREER IN PUBLIC HEALTH?

- Public health is an exciting and growing field of study. The field challenges its professionals to confront complex health issues, such as improving access to health care, controlling infectious disease, and reducing environmental hazards, violence, substance abuse, and injury.
- Public health is diverse and dynamic field. Public Health professionals come from varying educational backgrounds and can specialize in an array of fields. A host of specialists, including teachers, journalists, researchers, administrators, environmentalists, demographers, social workers, laboratory scientists, and lawyers, work to protect the health of the public.
- Public health is a field geared toward serving others. Public health professionals serve local, national, and international communities. They are leaders who meet the many exciting challenges in protecting the public's health today and in the future.
- Public health is a rewarding field. The field of public health offers great personal fulfillment working towards improving people's health and well being is a rewarding day's work.
